

Confidentiality Policy

We declare and undertake that we take all the measures to protect the received data; however we declare that we do not accept liability and responsibility for the mentioned received data in case of breaching our established required, standard security system.

We as www.tena.com.tr emphasize that we are not responsible for the links we may have in our website, for their gather information policy and their privacy exercise.

In case of www.tena.com.tr assets' partially or totally pass into other hands, we keep the rights to transfer the data received within the rules mentioned above.

By visiting our website and by benefitting from our services you approve that your info being gathered and used as it described above.

www.tena.com.tr website does not share your info with any other corporations or establishments. Your data on our system can be seen and changed only by you. Third parties cannot reach and/or change your data.

You can register to our website without filling out other areas. While being our website member, we give you an option about whether or not you would like to receive our newsletters. Upon your select we email you our newsletters. If you do not want to receive newsletters, you can click and cancel it from the member panel.